CITATION - Distinguished Professor Amin Saikal, AM, FASSA, Centre for Arab and Islamic Studies, ANU College of Arts & Social Sciences

The Peter Baume Award is the University’s most prestigious award. It recognises eminent achievement and merit of the highest order.

Professor Amin Saikal AM, FASSA is a Distinguished Professor at ANU specialising in the politics, history, political economy and international relations of the Middle East and Central Asia, and the role of Islam in these regions. He is the Director of the Centre for Arab and Islamic Studies, which he founded. Professor Saikal’s advice and public commentary are regularly sought by governmental, non-governmental organisations and media, and he was also an advisor to former Prime Minister Malcom Fraser. He has been awarded prestigious international fellowships, as well as visiting professorial and advisory board appointments. He was appointed a Member of the Order of Australia in 2006 for his achievements. His impressive contributions to Australian academic and public life include being a member of the National Consultative Committee for International Security Issues, director of the Peace Scholarship Board of International Development Program Education Australia and Chair of the National Advisory Committee for Arabic and Middle Eastern Studies in Australia.
